Want to write for Metaphysical Times Full Moon Magazine?

Metaphysical Times is always willing to consider metaphysical and pagan themed content for the magazine. We serve a spiritually based audience and support artists in their endeavors to do what they love and thrive by providing this space so they can be seen, connect with the right people, and succeed the best way we can.

What We Want for the Full Moon

Text based interviews with pagan business owners, musicians, artists, and authors are always considered. Visual works of art created by humans, poetry, photography, song lyrics, short fictional pieces, personal narratives, spiritual experiences, book, game, music, and movie reviews. At least loosely based on or connected to the Full Moon is preferred.

What We Don't Want

Political rants or screes, satire, stories blaming your problems on other people, articles involving cruelty as entertainment, anything comparing your life to the holocaust, articles about how everything was fine until X, articles promoting violence against any group.

FROM THE TEAM:

As we bask in the glow of creativity and connection, we invite our readers to extend their embrace beyond the pages of Full Moon Magazine and into the realms of their own communities. Just as the moon's light touches every corner of the earth, so too does the spark of inspiration ignite the hearts of creatives near and far.

We encourage you to seek out the artists, authors, cooks, musicians, and visionaries in your own spaces and show them the same love and support that you have generously bestowed upon us. Whether it's attending a local art exhibit, purchasing a handmade treasure from a nearby artisan, or simply sharing the work of a talented musician with your friends, every act of appreciation sends ripples of encouragement into the world.

For in nurturing the creative spirit wherever it may be found, we enrich not only our own lives but also the collective tapestry of human expression. So let us come together as guardians of creativity, spreading kindness and appreciation like seeds planted in fertile soil, knowing that from these small acts of support, mighty forests of inspiration shall grow.

As you journey through your days, may you always remember the power of your presence and the beauty of your support. Together, let us illuminate the world with the brilliance of our shared creativity, casting aside the shadows of doubt and fear, and embracing the light of possibility and connection.

With all our love,

ROMANCING THE PAST: LUPERCALIA'S SHADOW ON VALENTINE'S DAY

BY HENRY DALTON

Lupercalia was an ancient Roman festival that took place annually on February 15. It was a pagan celebration with roots dating back to the founding of Rome. The festival was dedicated to Lupercus, the Roman god of fertility, as well as to the founders of Rome, Romulus and Remus. Lupercalia was known for its unconventional and sometimes dark rituals, and its eventual replacement by Valentine's Day is a fascinating historical transition.

Origins of Lupercalia

The origins of Lupercalia can be traced back to the pre-Roman pastoral societies. It was initially associated with the Roman shepherd, who would lead a group of priests known as the Luperci in rituals to purify the city and promote fertility. The Luperci, dressed in goat skins, would run through the streets, striking people with thongs made from sacrificed goats, believed to bring fertility and ward off evil spirits.

Dark Rituals of Lupercalia

One of the central rituals of Lupercalia involved the Luperci sacrificing goats and a dog at the Lupercal, the cave where, according to Roman mythology, Romulus and Remus were nursed by a she-wolf. The blood from the sacrificed animals was then smeared on the foreheads of two young priests, who would laugh and wipe off the blood with wool soaked in milk.

Following this, the Luperci would cut the sacrificed hides into strips, fashioning thongs called "februa." These thongs were then used in a unique purification ritual where the priests, both young and old, would run naked or nearly naked through the streets, striking those they encountered. It was believed that being touched by the februa would ensure fertility and ward off infertility and evil.

The Controversial Nature of Lupercalia

While Lupercalia had deep cultural and religious significance for the ancient Romans, its rituals were considered by many as crude and even barbaric. The festival's association with fertility and purification through unconventional means led to criticisms from various quarters.

The raucous behavior of the Luperci and the bizarre rituals involving animal sacrifice and nudity drew the ire of some Roman authorities and intellectuals. The festival became increasingly controversial as Rome evolved, and attitudes towards religious practices and cultural traditions shifted.

The Transition to Valentine's Day

The decline of Lupercalia was gradual, and several factors contributed to its eventual replacement by Valentine's Day. One of the key influencers was the rise of Christianity in the Roman Empire. As Christianity gained prominence, pagan festivals like Lupercalia were viewed with skepticism and disapproval.

In the 5th century, Pope Gelasius I sought to Christianize the pagan festival by replacing Lupercalia with a Christian feast day. The exact origin of Valentine's Day is a subject of debate, but it is widely believed to have been established to honor St. Valentine, a Christian martyr executed on February 14.

Valentine's Day gradually gained popularity as a day to celebrate love and affection, and its association with Lupercalia faded over time. The romantic connotations of Valentine's Day provided a stark contrast to the fertility-focused rituals of Lupercalia, making it more palatable for evolving societal norms.

Banning of Lupercalia

While there isn't a specific historical record of an official ban on Lupercalia, the festival waned in significance over the centuries. The Christian authorities' efforts to replace it with a more acceptable celebration contributed to its decline. By the end of the 5th century, Lupercalia had largely disappeared from Roman society, replaced by the emerging traditions associated with Valentine's Day.

Lupercalia, with its dark and unconventional rituals, was an integral part of ancient Roman culture. However, as societal norms evolved and Christianity gained prominence, the festival faced criticism and eventual decline. The transition to Valentine's Day marked a shift from a pagan fertility celebration to a more socially acceptable day of expressing love and affection. Understanding the historical context of Lupercalia provides valuable insights into the complex interplay between religious, cultural, and societal forces that shape the traditions we observe today.

THE TWISTED WITCH'S GUIDE TO CREATING POWERFUL TALISMANS

BY THE TWISTED WITCH

Amidst the whispers of the winds and the rustle of leaves, The Twisted Witch beckons us to explore the ancient art of herbal magic. In this edition, she unveils the secrets of crafting herbal talismans, offering practical guidance for infusing everyday objects with the potent energy of the earth.

Exploration

Herbal magic, rooted in the wisdom of generations past, invites us to harness the healing power of nature to manifest our intentions and desires. Through the careful selection and preparation of herbs, we unlock the hidden properties of plants and channel their energy to create powerful talismans that serve as conduits for our magical workings.

Practical Application

Begin by selecting a handful of herbs that resonate with your intentions – perhaps lavender for peace and relaxation, rosemary for clarity and protection, or sage for purification and cleansing. Take a moment to connect with each herb, allowing its essence to speak to your soul. Once you've chosen your herbs, gather them together and tie them into a small bundle using natural twine or ribbon.

Crafting Project

To craft your herbal talisman, gather a small object that holds significance for you – a piece of jewelry, a key, a stone, or even a simple twig from your backyard. Hold the object in your hands and imbue it with your intentions, visualizing your desires manifesting with clarity and ease. Then, tuck your bundle of herbs into a pouch or sachet and place it alongside your chosen object, allowing the energies to merge and amplify each other.

Spell

As you hold your herbal talisman in your hands, recite the following incantation:

*“By earth and air, by fire and water,
I infuse this talisman with potent power.
With every breath, with every sigh,
May my intentions manifest, reaching for the sky.
So mote it be.”*

Feel the energy of your intentions coursing through the talisman, filling it with vitality and purpose. Carry it with you or place it in a sacred space to serve as a reminder of your magical intentions and a beacon of strength and empowerment.

With each step of this journey, may you feel the earth's embrace and the whisper of the wind guiding you toward your deepest desires. Embrace the magic that surrounds you, and let your intentions take root and flourish in the fertile soil of your soul.

BENEATH THE FROZEN SKY

BY HANK DAVIS

In the heart of rural Ireland, where the rolling hills and ancient landscapes whispered tales of old, lived a young boy named Aiden. Aiden was a spirited lad, curious and adventurous, with a mop of unruly red hair and eyes that sparkled like the emerald fields that surrounded his quaint village.

As February approached, the deceptive false thaw teased the residents with the illusion of spring. Aiden, captivated by the mild weather, couldn't resist the call of the outdoors. Eager to explore, he embarked on a journey into the hills, where he hoped to uncover the secrets that lay hidden beneath the frosty exterior.

However, as Aiden ventured deeper into the hills, the weather took an unexpected turn. Dark clouds gathered overhead, and an ominous chill permeated the air. The false thaw had betrayed him, and a fierce storm descended upon the landscape, trapping the unsuspecting boy in its icy clutches.

With the wind howling and snow swirling around him, Aiden sought refuge in a nearby cave. Little did he know that this decision would mark the beginning of a remarkable tale of survival and companionship.

Inside the cave, Aiden huddled for warmth, his breath visible in the frigid air. The cave provided some shelter, but it wasn't enough to shield him from the harsh elements. As the storm raged outside, Aiden's chances of survival dwindled with each passing day.

It was during one particularly bleak night that Aiden's fortune took an unexpected turn. In the dim light of the cave, he noticed a pair of glowing eyes staring back at him. To his astonishment, a ewe, rugged and weather-beaten, had sought refuge in the same cave. The creature seemed just as desperate for shelter as Aiden.

Realizing that they were in this predicament together, Aiden and the ewe formed an unlikely alliance. With resourcefulness beyond his years, Aiden managed to create a small fire using the limited supplies he had brought with him. The warmth from the fire not only kept Aiden from succumbing to the bitter cold but also provided comfort to the shivering ewe.

Days turned into weeks, and the storm showed no signs of relenting. Aiden and the ewe became unlikely companions in the battle against the elements. As they shared the confined space of the cave, a bond formed between them—one forged in the crucible of survival.

During the long, freezing nights, Aiden would huddle close to the fire, wrapping himself and the ewe in makeshift blankets fashioned from his own clothing. The ewe, in turn, provided a source of sustenance that proved vital for Aiden's survival.

It was discovered that the ewe had given birth to a lamb during the warmer days before the storm hit. The young lamb, resilient despite the harsh conditions, added a touch of hope to the otherwise dire situation. Aiden, driven by a sense of responsibility for his newfound companions, ensured that the lamb stayed warm and well-fed.

In the midst of the frozen landscape, a delicate ecosystem emerged within the confines of the cave. Aiden, the ewe, and the lamb formed a symbiotic relationship, each contributing to the survival of the others. The milk from the ewe became Aiden's lifeline, providing essential nutrients during the weeks when food was scarce.

As the storm finally began to wane, and the grip of winter loosened its hold on the hills, Aiden emerged from the cave with his unlikely companions in tow. The villagers, who had feared the worst, were astonished to see the red-haired boy, the resilient ewe, and the lamb that symbolized the triumph of life over adversity.

Aiden's tale spread far and wide, becoming a legend in the village—a testament to the indomitable spirit of a young boy and the unbreakable bond that formed in the heart of a frozen storm. The story of Aiden and his companions served as a reminder that even in the harshest of winters, warmth could be found in the most unexpected places, and survival often depended on the strength of unexpected alliances.

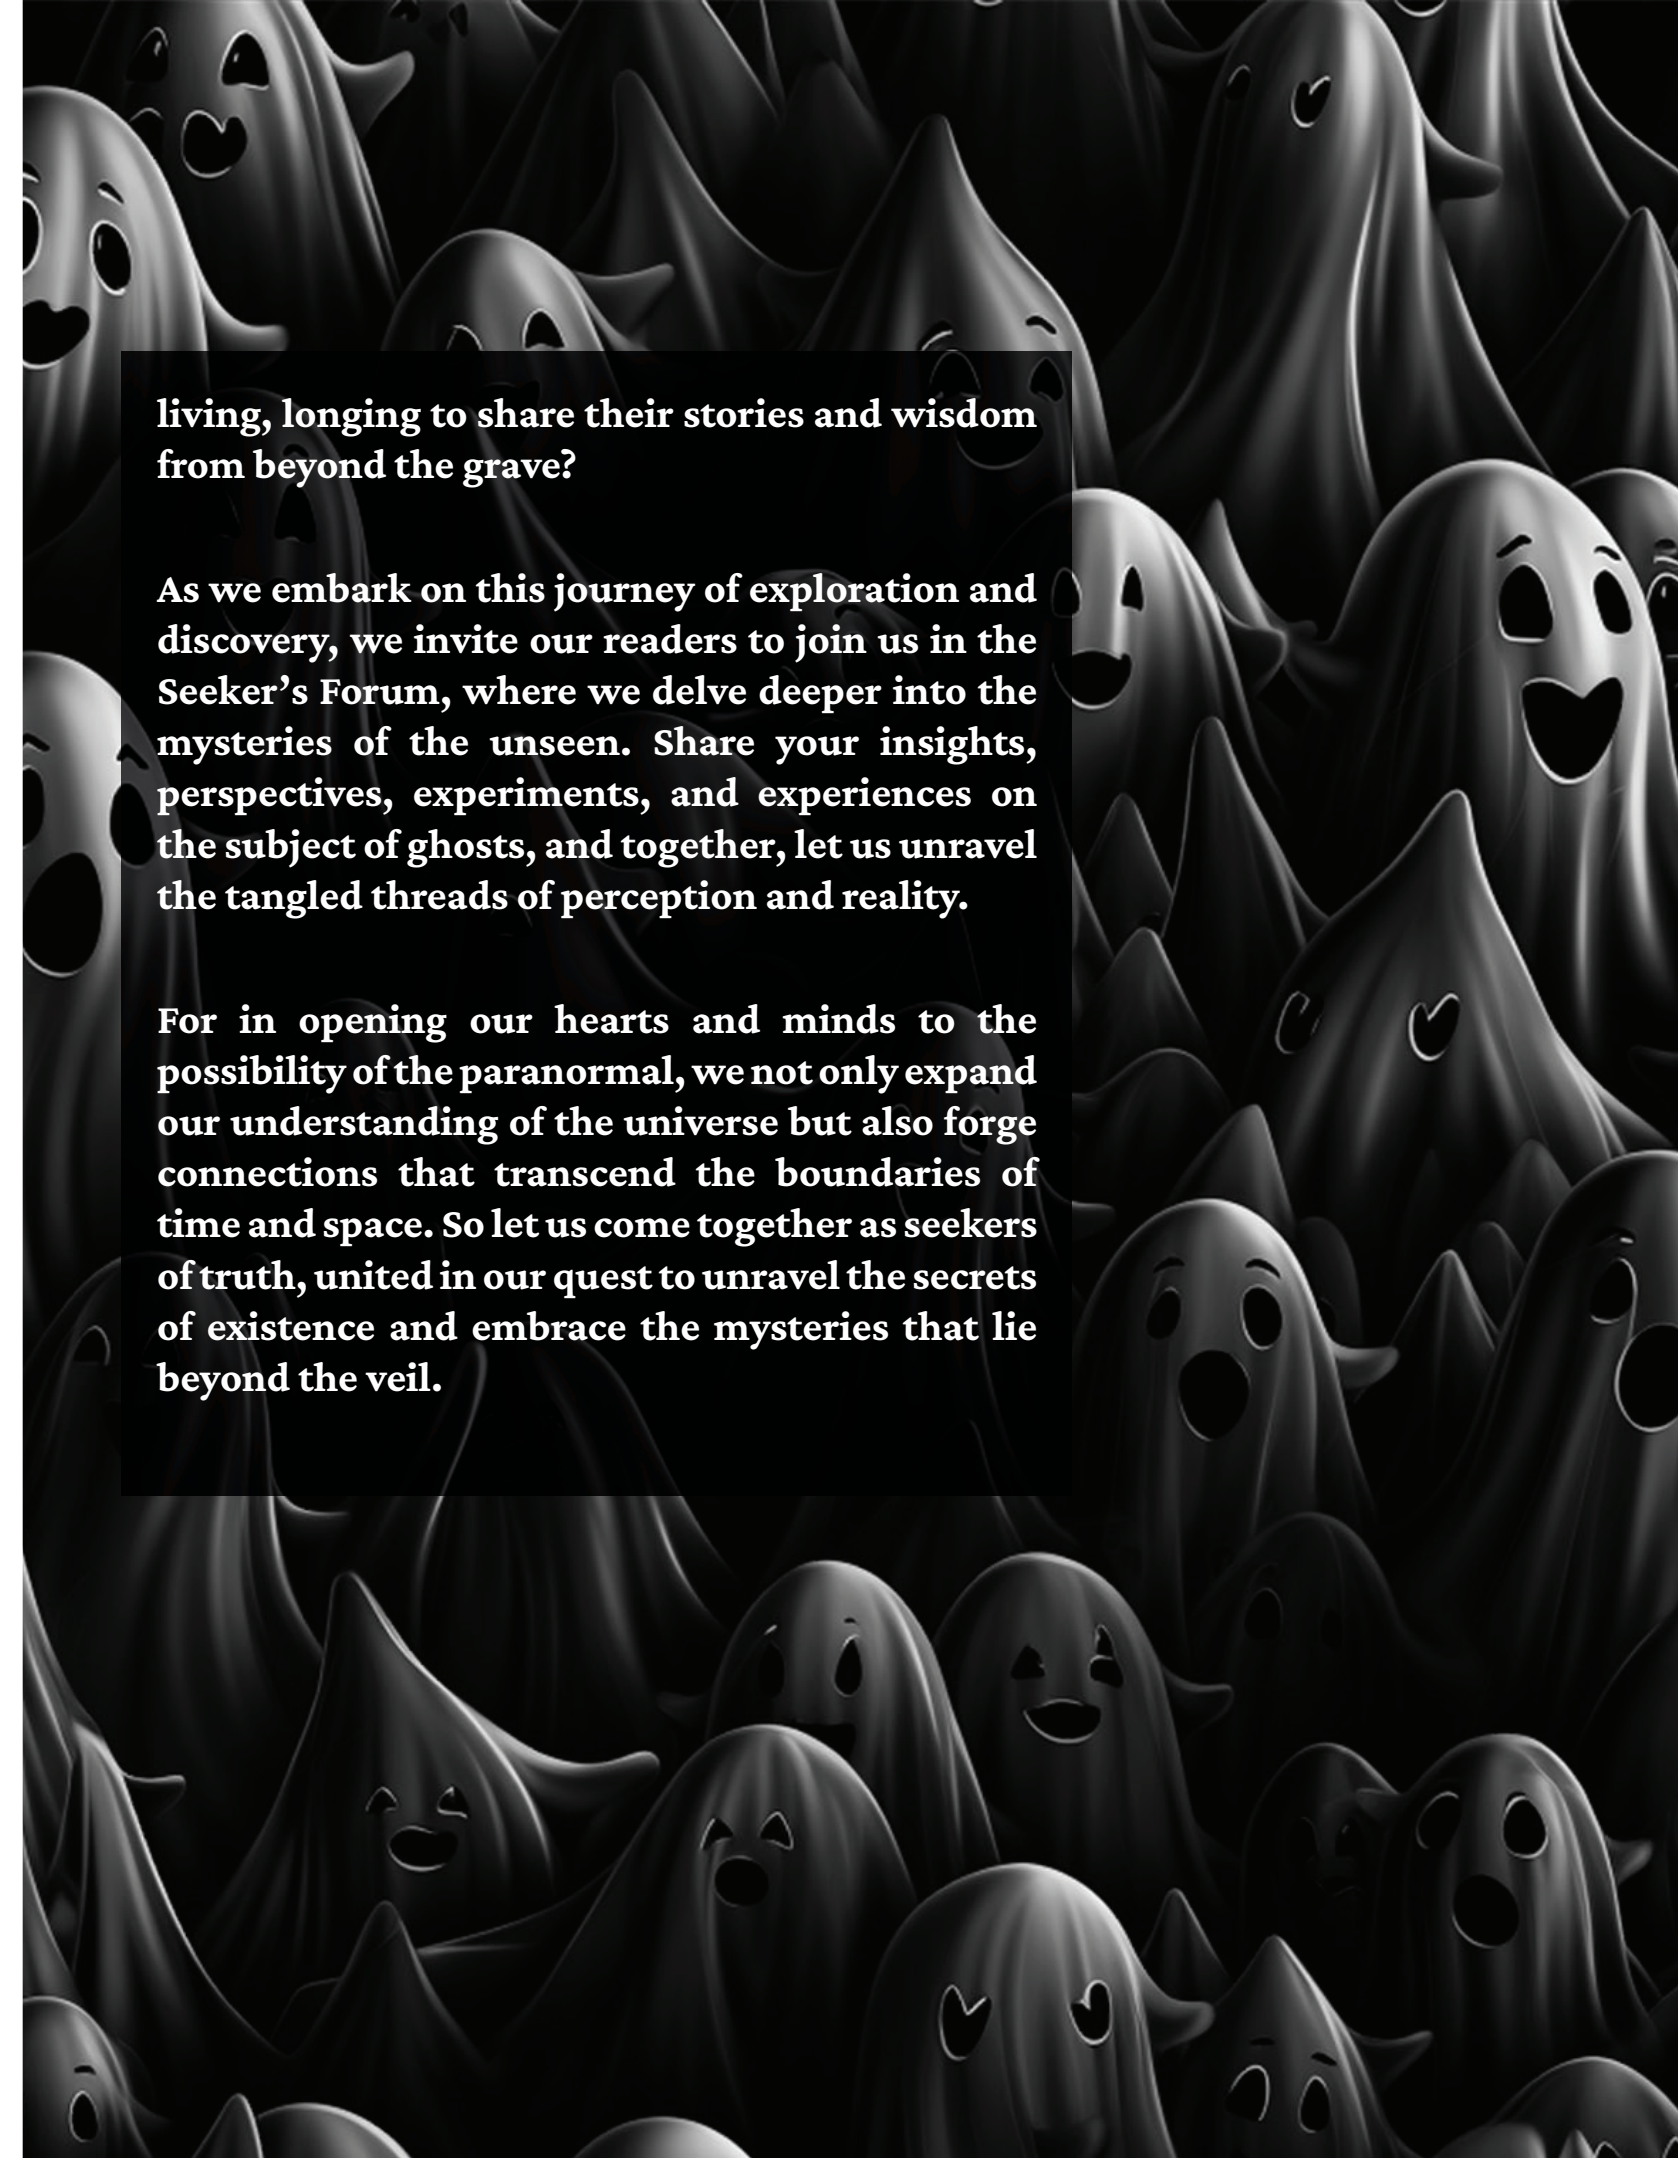

WHAT IF: GHOSTS ARE REAL?

BY CHRISTY MANN

As we peer into the mist-shrouded realms of the unknown, we find ourselves confronted with a question that has haunted humanity since time immemorial: What if ghosts are real?

For centuries, we have walked the thin line between belief and skepticism, grappling with the enigma of spirits that linger beyond the veil of death. From whispered tales of apparitions to chilling encounters in the dead of night, the specter of the supernatural has cast its shadow over our collective consciousness, leaving us both fascinated and fearful.

But what if ghosts are more than mere phantoms of the imagination? What if they are echoes of souls that have passed from this world to the next, lingering in the ether between realms? And what if, instead of harboring malevolent intent, they are simply seeking to communicate with the living, longing to share their stories and wisdom from beyond the grave?

As we embark on this journey of exploration and discovery, we invite our readers to join us in the Seeker's Forum, where we delve deeper into the mysteries of the unseen. Share your insights, perspectives, experiments, and experiences on the subject of ghosts, and together, let us unravel the tangled threads of perception and reality.

For in opening our hearts and minds to the possibility of the paranormal, we not only expand our understanding of the universe but also forge connections that transcend the boundaries of time and space. So let us come together as seekers of truth, united in our quest to unravel the secrets of existence and embrace the mysteries that lie beyond the veil.

KITCHEN WITCH'S CAULDRON

Ingredients

15 fresh bay leaves
3 eggs
8 ounces ricotta cheese
1/2 cup honey
1 teaspoon grated orange zest
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 cup all-purpose flour

SAVILLUM

(ANCIENT ROMAN CHEESECAKES)

Instructions

Preheat an oven to 425 degrees F (220 degrees C).

Pour some water into a small, oven proof bowl, and place into the oven.

Arrange the bay leaves over the bottom of the greased springform pan to cover.

Beat the eggs in a mixing bowl, then mix in ricotta cheese, honey, orange zest, and lemon juice.

Sprinkle in the flour, and stir until evenly combined.

Gently pour the batter over the bay leaves, being careful not to disturb them too much.

Bake in the preheated oven until browned, about 35 to 40 minutes. Run the tip of a paring knife around the edges of the pan, and release from the springform pan. Invert onto a serving plate, and serve warm or chilled.

FEBRUARY'S CELESTIAL WHISPERS: INTUITIVE GUIDANCE FOR THE ASTROLOGICAL SIGNS

BY CHRISTY MANN

As the month of February arrives like a whispered secret from the cosmos, carrying with it a message of profound wisdom for each astrological sign. EMBRACING RENEWAL: A SACRED IMBOLC RITUAL

FEBRUARY 2024 RITUAL

BY HENRY DALTION

Imbolc, a Celtic festival celebrating the onset of spring, offers a sacred opportunity for renewal and transformation. As we bid farewell to winter's frosty embrace, we welcome the promise of new beginnings and the awakening of life. This Imbolc renewal ritual is a guided journey to connect with the energy of this season, allowing you to release the old and invite fresh, vibrant energy into your life.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED

Candles

- Central candle for divine energy.
- Additional candles for specific intentions.

Altar Decor:

- Seasonal symbols (snowdrops, Brigid's crosses).
- Crystals (clear quartz, amethyst).
- Image or statue of Brigid.

Purification:

- Sage or palo santo for smudging.
- Ritual bath ingredients (lavender, rosemary, or Epsom salts).

Reflection:

- Journal or notebook.
- Pen or pencil.

Seed Planting:

- Seeds (flowers, herbs, symbolic seeds).
- Small pots or garden space.

Meditative Walk:

- Comfortable clothing and footwear.

Feast:

- Ingredients for a seasonal meal.
- Utensils, plates, napkins.
- Goblet or cup for sharing.

Closing Meditation:

- Comfortable seating.
- Soft cushions or blankets.

THE RITUAL

Setting the Space:

Begin by creating a sacred space for your Imbolc ritual. Choose a quiet room or a natural setting, and decorate it with symbols of the season – candles, snowdrops, and Brigid's crosses. Light candles to represent the returning light and the flame of inspiration. Play soft, uplifting music to enhance the atmosphere.

Opening Meditation:

Sit comfortably and close your eyes. Take a few deep breaths to center yourself. Visualize a gentle snowfall, each snowflake carrying the energy of renewal. Imagine the world blanketed in purity and potential. As you breathe in, feel the crisp air invigorating your spirit. As you exhale, release any lingering tension or negativity.

Invocation to Brigid:

Invoke the presence of Brigid, the Celtic goddess associated with Imbolc. Speak from your heart, expressing gratitude for the blessings in your life and asking for guidance on your journey of renewal. You may choose to recite a traditional invocation or create your own heartfelt words.

Purification Ritual:

Symbolize the cleansing of the old by participating in a purification ritual. This could involve smudging with sage, taking a ritual bath infused with herbs like lavender or rosemary, or simply washing your hands and face with intention. As the water cleanses, visualize any stagnant energy being washed away, leaving you refreshed and renewed.

Candle Magic:

Set up an altar with a central candle representing the divine flame of inspiration. Surround it with additional candles, each symbolizing an aspect of your life you wish to renew – love, creativity, health, etc. Light each candle with intention, focusing on the qualities you want to amplify. As the flames dance, visualize these aspects of your life flourishing.

Reflective Journaling:

Take a moment to reflect on the past season. What lessons have you learned? What aspects of your life need renewal and revitalization? Journal your thoughts and emotions, allowing your inner wisdom to guide you. This reflective process will help you set clear intentions for the coming months.

Seed Planting Ceremony:

As a symbol of growth and renewal, engage in a seed planting ceremony. Choose seeds that resonate with your intentions – flowers, herbs, or even symbolic seeds representing specific goals. Plant them in a pot or in the ground, infusing each seed with your hopes and dreams. As you nurture these seeds, you symbolically nurture the growth of your aspirations.

Meditative Walk:

If possible, take a meditative walk in nature. Feel the earth beneath your feet and the promise of spring in the air. As you walk, visualize yourself shedding the old and embracing the new. Allow the energy of the season to infuse your being with vitality and purpose.

Feast and Sharing:

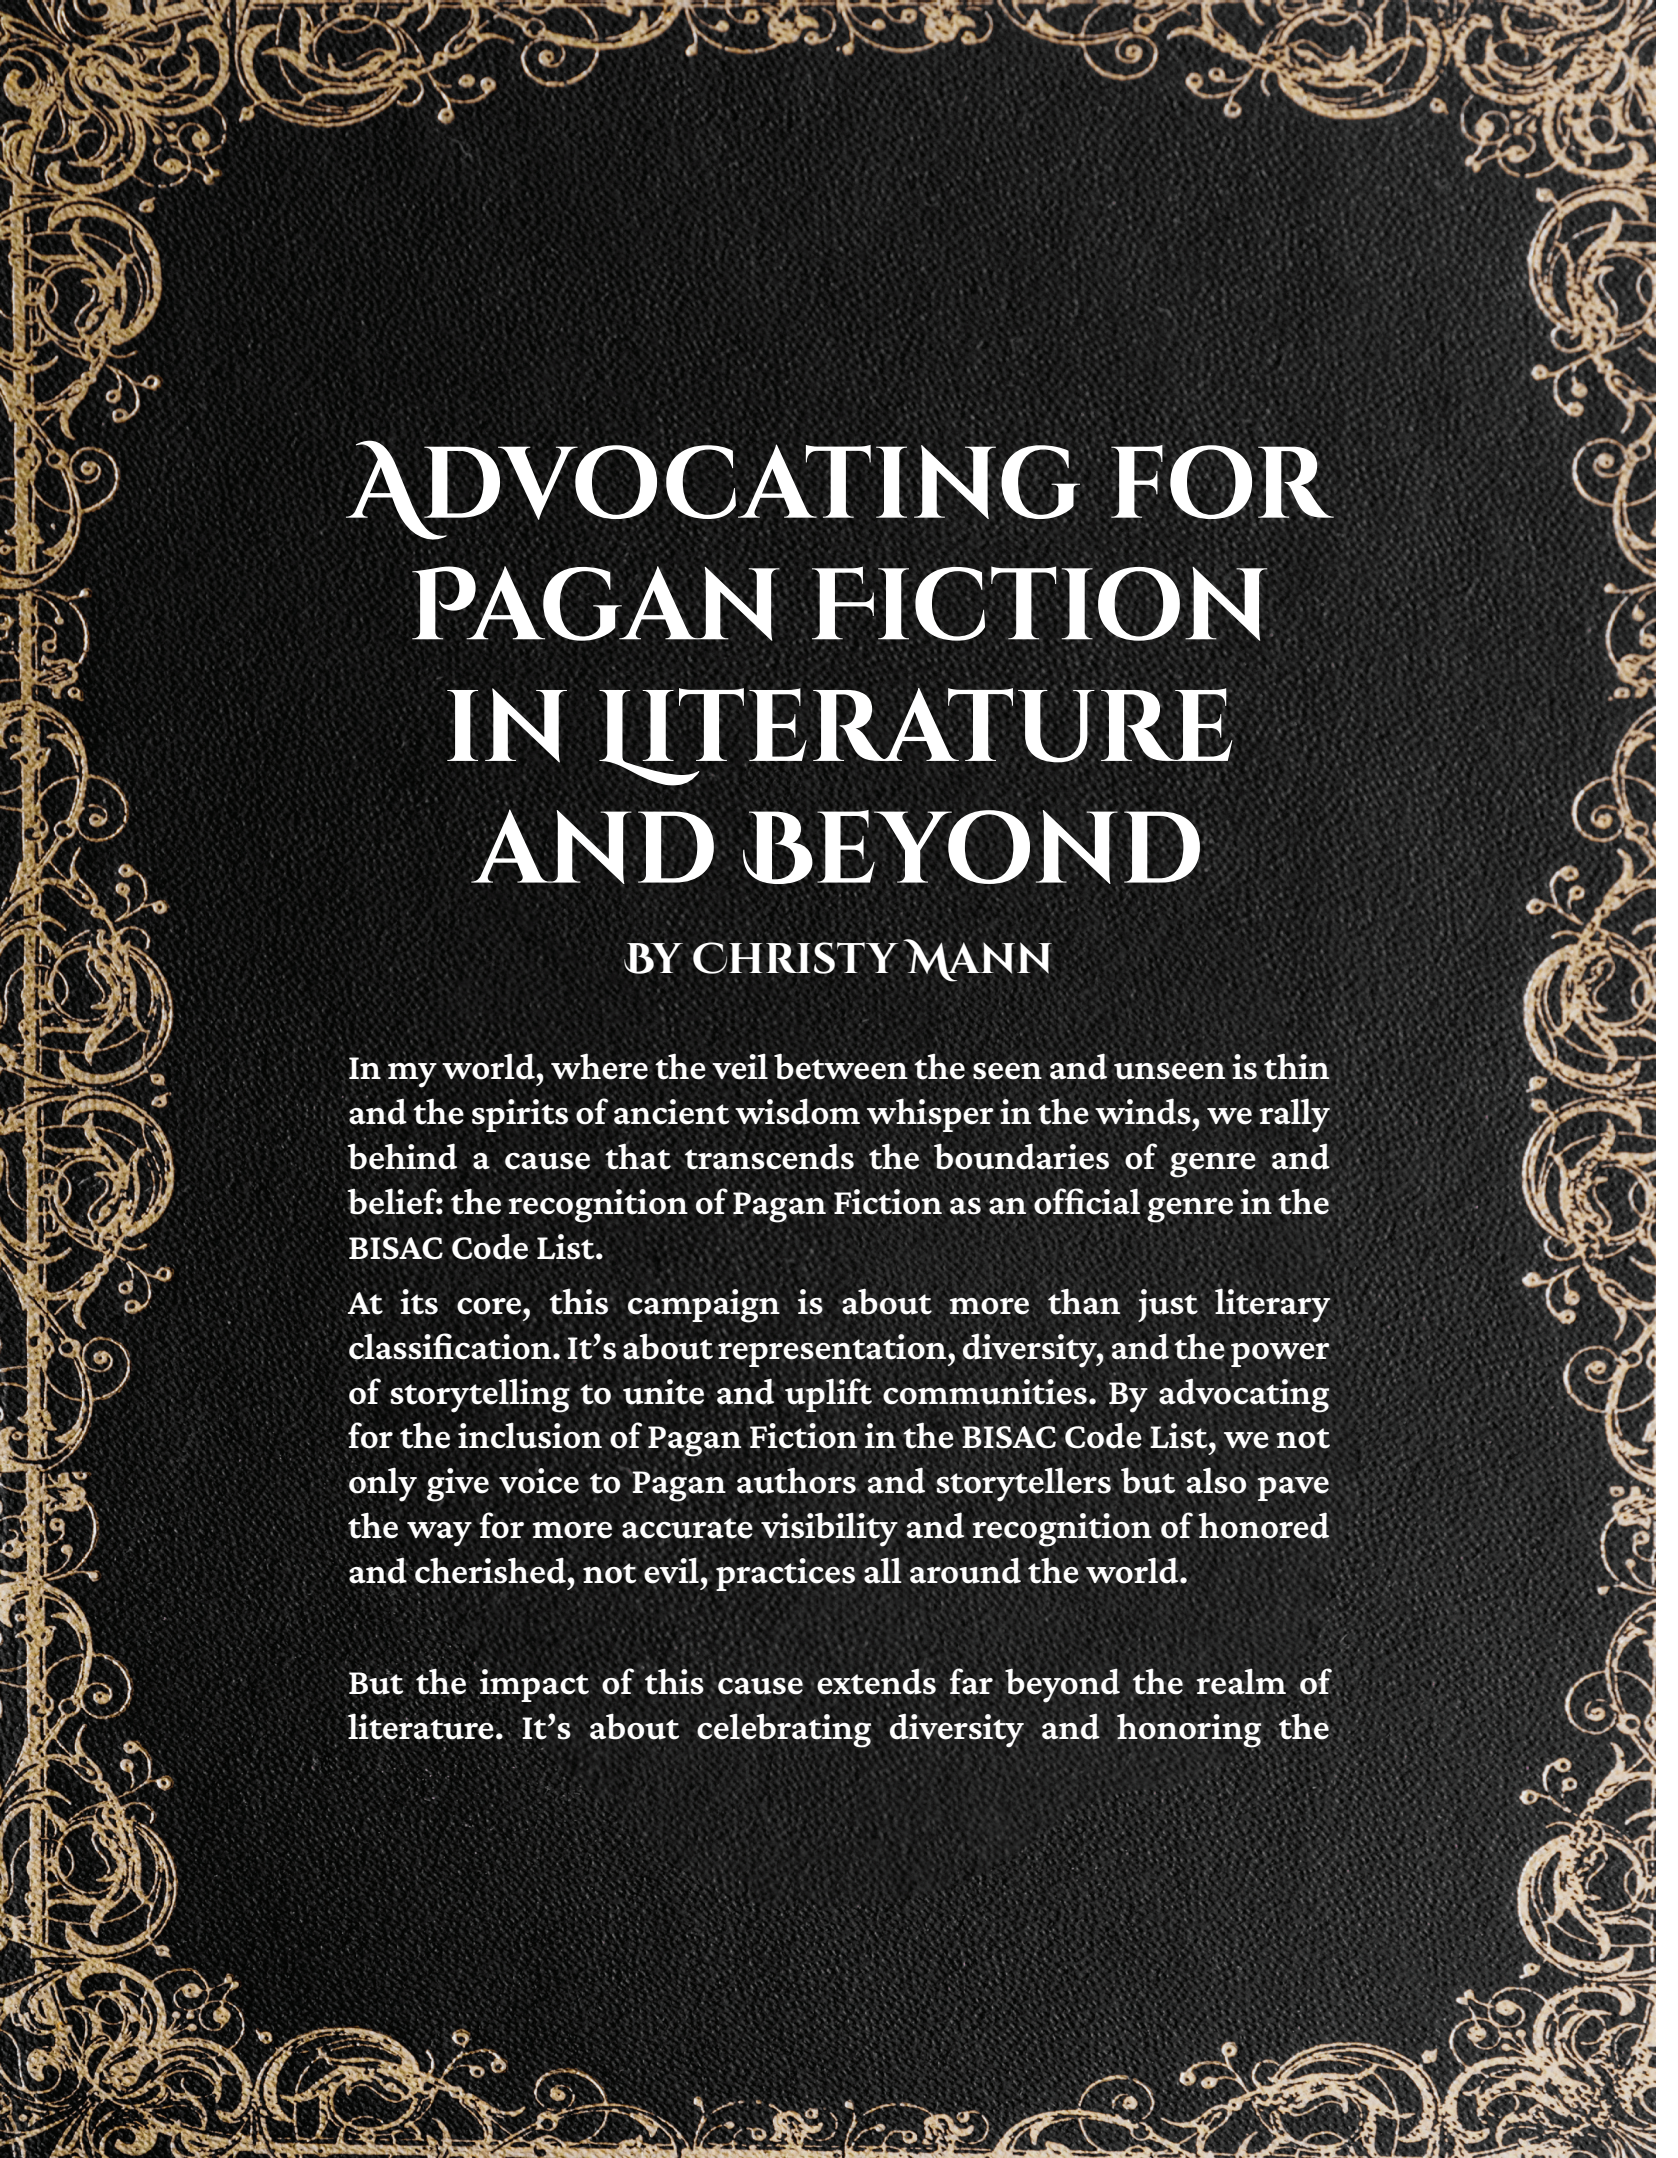

Celebrate the conclusion of your Imbolc renewal ritual with a feast. Prepare a meal using seasonal ingredients and share it with loved ones or in solitude. Reflect on the interconnectedness of life and the joy of sharing nourishment. As you eat, savor each bite and give thanks for the abundance that surrounds you.

Closing Meditation and Gratitude:

End your ritual with a closing meditation. Express gratitude for the energy of renewal that has flowed through you. Visualize a radiant light surrounding you, protecting and guiding you on your journey ahead. Take a moment to thank Brigid for her presence and guidance.

Closing Words:

As you conclude your Imbolc renewal ritual, carry the energy of this sacred moment into your daily life. Embrace the promise of renewal, and allow the seeds you've planted to blossom in the coming months. May this ritual be a source of inspiration and transformation as you walk the path of growth and awakening. Blessed be!

ADVOCATING FOR PAGAN FICTION IN LITERATURE AND BEYOND

BY CHRISTY MANN

In my world, where the veil between the seen and unseen is thin and the spirits of ancient wisdom whisper in the winds, we rally behind a cause that transcends the boundaries of genre and belief: the recognition of Pagan Fiction as an official genre in the BISAC Code List.

At its core, this campaign is about more than just literary classification. It's about representation, diversity, and the power of storytelling to unite and uplift communities. By advocating for the inclusion of Pagan Fiction in the BISAC Code List, we not only give voice to Pagan authors and storytellers but also pave the way for more accurate visibility and recognition of honored and cherished, not evil, practices all around the world.

But the impact of this cause extends far beyond the realm of literature. It's about celebrating diversity and honoring the myriad paths of spirituality and belief that enrich our world. By embracing Pagan Fiction as a legitimate genre, we send a powerful message of acceptance and inclusivity to all members of the Pagan community, affirming their right to share their stories and perspectives with the world.

Furthermore, by amplifying the voices of Pagan authors and storytellers, we contribute to the preservation and dissemination of ancient wisdom and traditions. Through the medium of fiction, we have the opportunity to explore the depths of myth, magic, and mystery, uncovering hidden truths and tapping into the collective unconsciousness of humanity.

But perhaps most importantly, this cause serves as a catalyst for social change and cultural evolution. By challenging outdated stereotypes and misconceptions, we pave the way for a more enlightened and compassionate society, where all voices are heard, all stories are celebrated, and all beliefs are respected.

So let us stand together as champions of diversity, advocates for inclusivity, and guardians of the sacred art of storytelling. Let us raise our voices in support of Pagan Fiction and affirm our commitment to building a world where all paths are honored, all voices are valued, and all dreams are given the chance to flourish.
